

Section: Overview

Module : Account

Creating a GeoNode account

You can interact with a GeoNode without an account but if you want to upload or edit data or view non-public data you will need an account.

You try

Goal: Obtain a GeoNode account

- * If your GeoNode instance has a Register option, click on it and proceed to register yourself.
- * If your GeoNode does not have a register option, ask the administrator or trainer to create an account for you.

- * Before you log in, browse around the site and see what is available to public users.
- * Log in with your new account and see what additional content and functionality are available to you.
- * Complete your profile by clicking on your username in the top right corner. Note what else you can see in your personal dashboard.

✓ Check your results

Could you successfully log in with your own user account?

Did you manage to populate your profile?

More about GeoNode accounts

Having a GeoNode account will enable you to

- upload your own data layers
- edit styles and metadata
- share layers and maps with others
- interact with private content

